

Tyler Caulkin

Tyler Caulkin is an interdisciplinary artist living and working in Los Angeles. He received his MFA in Art and Integrated Media from California Institute of the Arts, and has since shown and performed his work across the US and in cities such as Berlin, London, Toronto, Guadalajara, and Kathmandu. His participatory projects examine social constructions, habits, and anxieties through play and improvisation. Drawing from safety and hygiene products and evolving digital interfaces, Tyler rearranges material culture into social catalysts. The resulting situations propose new models for interpersonal and inter-object relations.
