

Sarah Petersen

Sarah Petersen's practice includes installation, performance, sculpture, painting, drawing, sound, video, and the production of signs and signals that she and others can use to reconsider and intervene in social space. Her current interests include the logics of subsistence living, supportive structures, and the tension between accidental embodiment and chosen enactment in our daily political lives.